

Do these thoughts run through your head?

I face many water and energy challenges and risks.
I cannot face them alone.
What should I do?

Collective action (working together) and
water stewardship
(doing the right thing)
is the answer

The WWF Water Stewardship Ladder

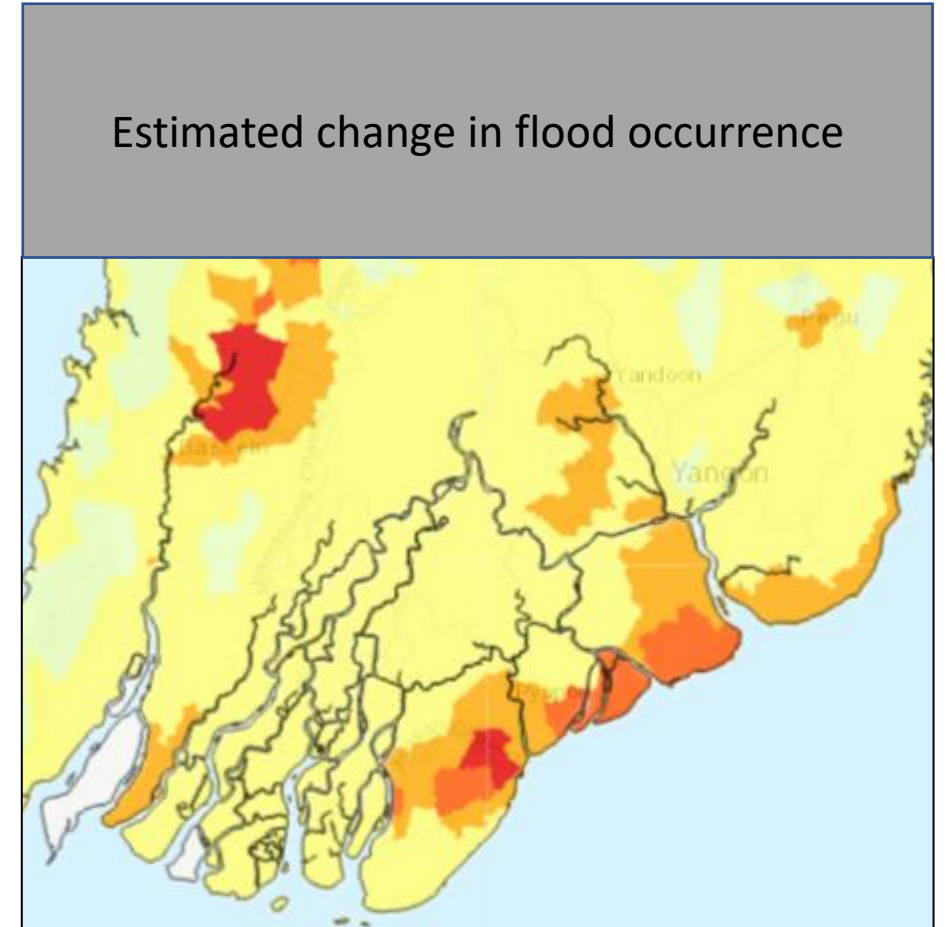

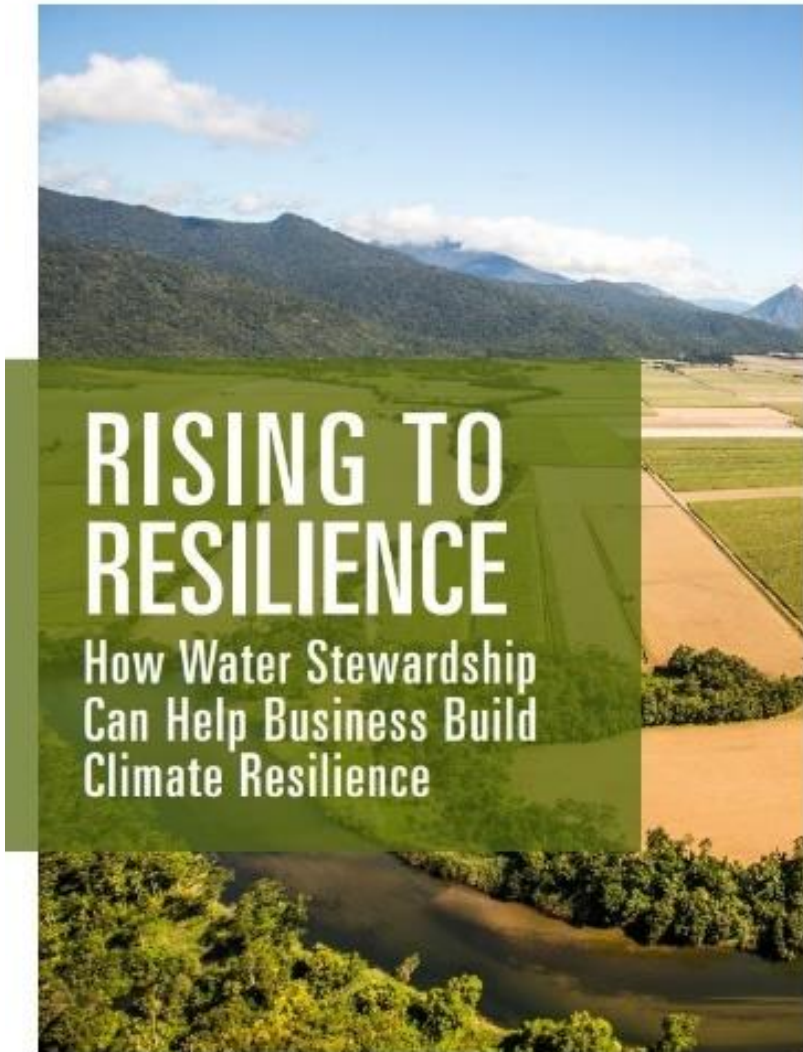

Companies may fall within different steps of the water stewardship ladder.

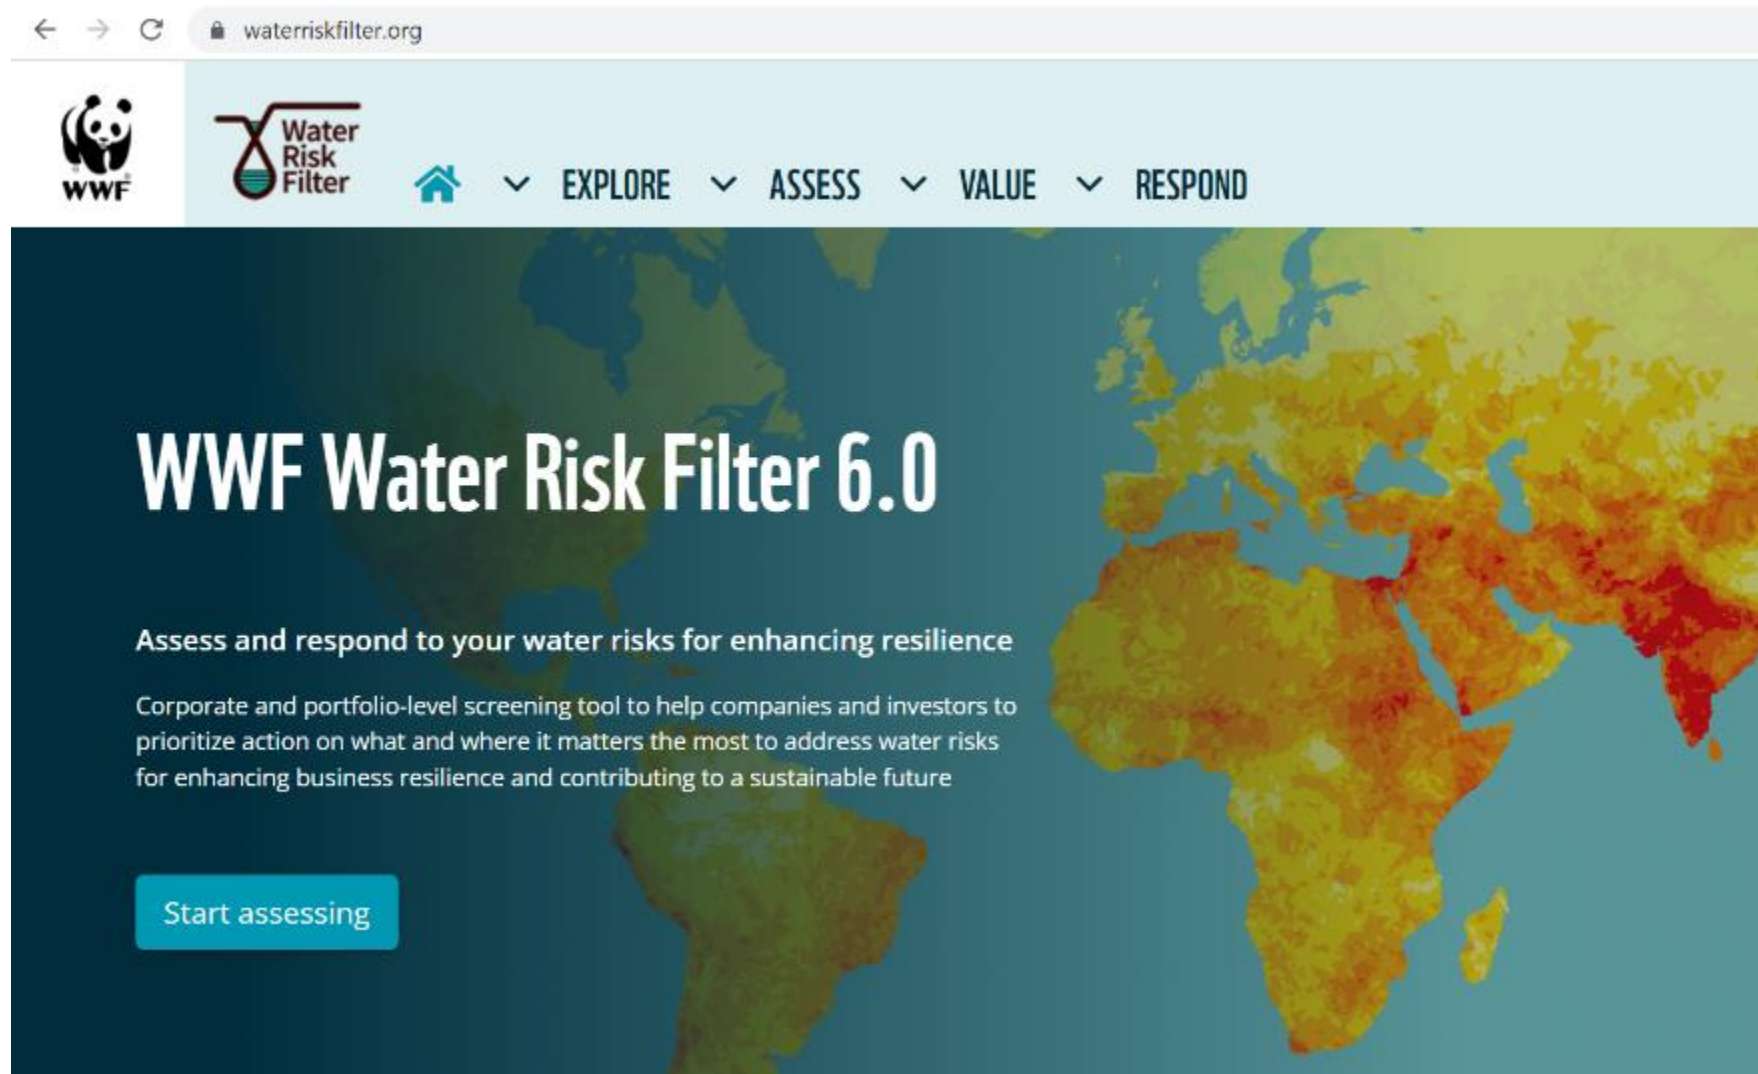

Water stewardship is more than just a ladder

Water stewardship can be more than “just” water

The WWF Water Risk Filter can be used to help identify and prioritize the company and basin water risks

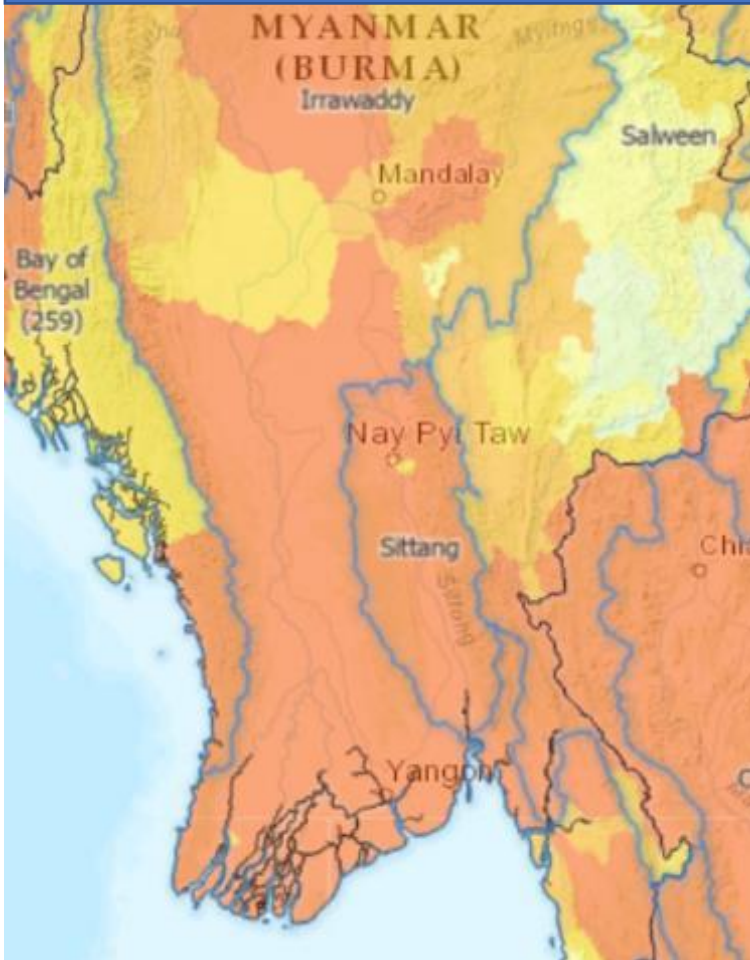

The screenshot shows the WWF Water Risk Filter 6.0 website. The browser address bar displays "waterriskfilter.org". The navigation menu includes the WWF logo, the "Water Risk Filter" logo, a home icon, and dropdown menus for "EXPLORE", "ASSESS", "VALUE", and "RESPOND". The main content area features a world map with a color-coded risk overlay. The text on the page reads: "WWF Water Risk Filter 6.0", "Assess and respond to your water risks for enhancing resilience", and "Corporate and portfolio-level screening tool to help companies and investors to prioritize action on what and where it matters the most to address water risks for enhancing business resilience and contributing to a sustainable future". A blue button labeled "Start assessing" is positioned at the bottom left of the main content area.
